

SKYROCKETING TAX COLLECTIONS

We don't need the money

Olympia is awash in money – a $20 billion increase in tax collections since 2013. That's more than enough to meet every need.

It's the single biggest problem with the case for an income tax.

Advocates of higher taxes and spending think Washington isn't taxed heavily enough. They're talking about theories. We're talking about facts.

Projections show we'll have another $4 billion by the time we write our next budget. That's without raising taxes. Shouldn't that be enough?

It's the sad truth about the income tax.

In Olympia, no amount is ever enough.
